

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method is directed to the control of the speed of a vehicle wherein the actual speed is caused to track the desired speed. For reducing the actual speed, a transmission (1) of the 5 vehicle (5) is driven to downshift and thereby the brake system is protected with respect to wear and overheating.